

Kenya Boys Boarding School Progressing!

ICCM is a bright spot in the lives of 1633 students in Kenya. Most would not have a chance to attend school at all without sponsorship. Because of ICCM, they're not only learning the "three R's" but also experiencing the love of God and life in Christ through our schools.

There's a big problem, though. The Free Methodist schools in Kenya are only primary schools. According to Vickie Reynen, ICCM's Regional Coordinator for Africa, "More and more, there just aren't enough government high schools to handle the volume of students graduating from primary schools. The only options are private schools, but those are either very expensive or else affordable but with very low quality." Many of our students can't continue their education past eighth grade. This limits their potential in many ways.

A solution proposed several years ago by the ICCM National Committee in Kenya was to create a boys boarding school to draw the best students from all of our primary schools. (A girls school is next!) In 2012 a bicycle team from the US raised $47,000 for the property and fencing; now a caretaker's house, cow shed, borehole, electricity, and latrine have been completed. Below are architect's drawings of the site plan (not all visible here) and Phase One buildings. Phase One will include three classrooms, a dining hall, a dorm, and staff housing.

Estimated cost, including windows and doors, electricity, plumbing, and other essentials, is just over $206,000. Please pray for a miracle! With God's help, we can do this. To donate to this project, please designate your gift to ICCM "Kenya Boys School." Thank you!

Dr. Buconyori FM Boys High School

The new school will be named after the late Bishop Dr. Elie Buconyori of Burundi.

unlocks the God-given potential of young people, and devoted his life to the advancement of Christian education in Africa.

Bishop Elie Buconyori loved learning and had a deep seated passion for education. As Founder and President of Hope Africa University, which originated in Kenya before relocating to Burundi, he yearned to see students excel. He understood that education

Dr. Buconyori himself was a highly esteemed Christian statesman, leading the Free Methodist Church in Burundi, presiding over Hope Africa University, and chairing the Free Methodist World Conference. In 2011, Burundi President Pierre Nkurunziza recognized his achievements at Hope Africa University with a presidential award.

Kenya's new Bishop-Elect Hawkins Mugaya sees this new school as a fitting legacy to the memory of Bishop Elie, who passed away on Easter Sunday, 2013.
